YOUR CHALLENGE

DISRUPTIONS CAUSED BY LACK OF KEY PERSONS, DEMOGRAPHIC IMPACT, REORGANIZATION

Today's increasingly complex and fast changing work areas and organizations need to be able to identify and transfer knowledge from key persons in a structured and efficient way. This is an essential ability to survive and to be fit for future development. Knowledge transfers and boost quality of deliverables: Motivated employees who want to build a deeper understanding of a worksphere and experts who would like to pass on knowledge, without losing too much time for daily work. So, why doesn't it work?

The responsibility to enable a successful onboarding within the Worksphere / daily work areas of key persons is mostly handed over to the already overloaded subject matter experts. SME's rely on existing documents and presentations and tell the knowledge receivers the same story as every time when they are asked to handover their expertise. This is neither creating an efficient learning process nor is the content mapped to the receiver's needs and priorities.

Our coaching guarantees an optimized and visualized transfer of complex workflows, personal network in context, working scenarios, stakeholder analysis, worst and / or best practices , ... even under difficult change conditions as reorganizations or leave of experts.

This means, that implicit, experience based knowledge can be made explicit in its context.

This showed up particularly evident when arriving at a large company and measured against the associated costs for the introduction into higher-level topics. While the line management declared the reduction of training time into the day to day business professional with 10-20 %, they attested to the general worksphere topics even a 50% gain ... "

" ... The coached methodology for knowledge transfer was a great support: The transfer of knowledge was organized and guided from A to Z both in structure and carrying out. Additionally I was able to save about 50 hours I would have used for the incorporation of the new employees ... I would like to mention that my new employees were incorporated more rapidly with the structured knowledge transfer methodology, overall measured, there has been a 2-7 months gain for 'time to market' of these key persons, compared to the previously usual onboarding and training package ... " ... In our case of professional worksphere, there exists no offer of a comprehensive and efficient education . The success of the daily work is based on a huge experience... For our company it was essential, to successfully guarantee the complete fulfillment of this important role for safety reasons and for efficient operation of the chemical production tasks. In other words, ensuring a future stability, even in this change situation ... "

"... One of our first areas to use the methodology was in region Asia, to enable the new head of a Research & Development Center. Compared to other onboarding processes, the moderated and coached approach to create a structured Worksphere Map showed huge advantages due to a complete, visualized overview on all relevant aspects of the work area (role specific, relation of stakeholders, experience based knowledge, personal network...) . "
