I would like to mention that my new employees were incorporated more rapidly with the structured knowledge transfer methodology, overall measured, there has been a 2-7 months gain for 'time to market' of these key persons, compared to the previously usual onboarding and training package ..."

KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT AS A STRATEGIC TOPIC

Managers need to adapt to new requirements of agile organizations: They have to improve their mindset and leadership skills towards networks and employee centric leadership models. They will amend or in some areas even replace strongly hierarchical forms of organizations. Transparency, enabling an efficient development of employees and creating a motivational, organizational framework are key for successful, agile cooperation. Your benefits: successful risk mitigation, seamless succession, on time and on budget projects and implementations, valuable, interdisciplinary innovation. Keep the distance towards your followers in the market.
